Captain Maravillas,

Thank you for the update. The most recent message indicated continued rolling production but did not include any responsive documents. I'm attaching a screenshot of my portal view to assist with any troubleshooting of file availability.

A few questions so I can calibrate expectations on my end:

1. Was the zero-document batch intentional — i.e., is the City's position that no responsive records were identified for the interval since the April 15 production?

2. What is the estimated remaining volume still to be produced (pages, documents, or batch count)?

3. What is the current estimated completion date for the full response?

Rough ranges are fine if precise figures aren't yet available.

Thanks,
Brian
