Dear Sheriff Binder,

I have reviewed the Civil Grand Jury's report released August 3, 2026, entitled "Is Our Flock of ALPR Cameras Properly Tended?" Given my ongoing concerns about the county's Flock contract and controls over Flock data, I look forward to your response to the grand jury's findings and recommendations.

In the meantime, I have a few additional questions for you:

1. When my staff met with Assistant Sheriff Mark Myers this past April, he kindly explained the state of Flock auditing at that time. It appears that much of the auditing function was manual, which is not ideal over the enormous amount of data involved. Assistant Sheriff Myers further explained that a new AI audit assistance program would soon be tested and possibly implemented, and that it would more efficiently show who outside of the county accesses county data, and the details of any sharing that originates within the county.
 - a. Is your office using the new AI audit assistance program now? If so, what is your assessment of its capabilities?
 - b. How often do you conduct audits, and what do you seek to determine from the audits? Are you obtaining the information you seek from the audits?
 - c. Have any audits conducted this calendar year revealed unauthorized access or unauthorized sharing of the County's Flock data?
2. Redwood City and Stanford are the most recent local examples of entities determining not to continue their Flock contracts. I understand that the decision to cease operations with Flock was not necessarily due to proof of unauthorized sharing, but due to discomfort with its lack of controls and mistrust over its data classification and permissions, which errors could allow for unauthorized access or sharing. These localities are exploring other providers of license plate readers. As the contract terminates in two years, are you exploring other vendors for the future?

I look forward to your response.

Respectfully,

Jackie Speier
