

https://www.smdailyjournal.com/news/local/south-san-francisco-launches-license-plate-reader-program/article_5d82c40e-6a21-11ed-b59f-bf892e6b7665.html

South San Francisco launches license plate reader program

Nov 22, 2022

South San Francisco officials announced the city has launched an automated license plate recognition program with 28 solar-powered cameras installed at key public locations, as a way to aid solving increased property crimes in the hotel corridor.

“The use of this technology has already proven to be a game changer in the fight against crime and a valuable tool for our officers to help solve otherwise difficult-to-solve cases,” Police Chief Scott Campbell said in a press release. “The safety of our residents and visitors is paramount and the investment in this program shows how committed we are to keeping South San Francisco a safe place.”

