long, as fans were only allowed in after others had left once it reached capacity.

The game lit up the big screen as fans watched attentively from the turf as the U.S. got its second win in this year's World Cup.

The park offered a variety of seating, including covered tables, lawn chairs and a large yard fit for picnic blankets. Despite this, fans stood in excitement.

The crowd moved in blurs of red, white and blue, while U.S. and Australia fans alike rooted for their teams below the skyscrapers.

Skyline featured activities for everyone, including raffles, yard games and food vendors.

Entry for Skyline’s watch parties is free, though it is required to reserve a spot online. Other free amenities include sunscreen stations, cool-down stations and photo ops.
