

5 vehicles stolen from Alameda County maintenance garage; investigation underway

By KTVU Staff and Aaron Dickens

KTVU FOX 2 News

Published June 7, 2026 2:36 PM PDT

The Brief

- The Alameda County Sheriff's Office discovered just after 7:15 a.m. on Sunday that a parking garage at 165 13th St. had been broken into and five department vehicles were missing.
- Authorities were able to recover the vehicles by using automated license plate readers.

OAKLAND, Calif. - Several vehicles were stolen from an Alameda County maintenance garage in Oakland on Sunday morning.

What we know: The sheriff's office discovered just after 7:15 a.m. on Sunday that a parking garage at 165 13th St. had been broken into and five department vehicles were missing, according to a department statement.

ACSO Sgt. Roberto Morales told KTVU that a preliminary investigation indicated that an unknown number of suspects forced their way into the maintenance garage through a gate.

Morales added that one of the vehicles stolen belonged to a rental company while another was an unmarked police vehicle belonging to the sheriff's office.

Authorities were able to recover four of the vehicles by using automated license plate readers, though the fifth vehicle – the unmarked sheriff's vehicle – was outstanding on Sunday morning and the sheriff's department advised the public to exercise caution if they were approached by individuals claiming to be law enforcement in a blue 2025 Ford Explorer.

However, the sheriff's office told KTVU about 4:20 p.m. that the remaining police vehicle had been found and recovered.

What's next: An investigation into the vehicle thefts is ongoing, and no suspects have been taken into custody.

Anyone with information was asked to contact the Alameda County Sheriff's Office at 510-667-7721.

The Source: Alameda County Sheriff's Office

News Crime and Public Safety Oakland